

Jonathan Moyer is a 17 years old junior at Bishop Canevin High School. He has been involved in scouting for 11 years. He belongs to Troop 1005 in Washington based out of Immaculate Conception Church.

In order to attain the rank of Eagle, a Scout must: earn 21 merit badges, demonstrate exceptional leadership in their troop and community, and lead a service project to benefit a nonprofit organization in their community.

Jonathan picked Washington County Habitat for Humanity. He originally told Kim Gloady, Executive Assistant for Habitat, he would fill three baskets of household items for new homeowners for his service project.

Jonathan reached out to his community and received more help than he expected. He was able to fill three 65 gallon garbage cans. These gifts will be presented to Habitat's next three recipients of a new home.

Washington County Habitat has built 56 new homes for qualifying people in need in Washington County since 1989.
